IX. International Essential Tremor Foundation (IETF) Request for Proposals

The IETF is receptive to receiving proposals for grants addressing the nosology, etiology, pathogenesis, treatment or other topics relevant to essential tremor (ET). The aim is to stimulate inquiry into this poorly understood clinical disorder and to provide support to projects that are innovative and give promise of receiving more substantial support from NIH and/or other sources if sufficient preliminary information can be obtained from projects supported by the IETF. X. Ebrain: Building and Expanding the Educational Future* ebrain (<http://www.ebraininc.com/>), the unique online e-learning resource for trainees and trainers in the neuroscience continues to expand and improve the quality of its educational programme following very positive reviews at the launch[1]. Individual access is part of your ENS membership. At the end of the first year, over 550 lessons were live online, and there are over 5,500 users now registered. Phase 2 of the development sees a range of exciting new online initiatives for ebrain members to enjoy, including: More »
